The student protest was ostensibly about a new law that required their schools to use and teach the Afrikaans language instead of English. The protest a new law that required their schools to use and teach the Afrikaans language instead of English. The student protest was ostensibly about a new law that required their schools to use and teach the Afrikaans language instead of English. The student protest was ostensibly about a new law that required their schools to use and teach the Afrikaans language instead of English. The student protest was ostensibly about a new law that required their schools to use and teach the Afrikaans language instead of English. The student protest was ostensibly about a new law that required their schools to use and teach the Afrikaans language instead of English.